

Life Matters

Program Home
Past Programs
Features
Subscribe
About Us
Contact Us

Ageing in a foreign land: cultural diversity and aged care

▶ Listen now

⬇ Download audio

Monday 10 July 2017 9:06AM \(view full episode\)

Aged care is one of our biggest growing industries, but is it adapting to the needs of older Australians who come from different cultural backgrounds?

Mahjabeen Ahmad has just completed a two year project looking at cultural diversity at the ACH Group in South Australia, which aims to bridge the divide between the Muslim community and aged care providers.

Rosa Colanero, CEO of Multicultural Aged Care and Bianca Brijnath, director of social gerontology at the National Ageing Research Institute, believes more needs to be done to prepare for shifts in culture in the years to come.

Bianca Brijnath, director of social gerontology at the National Ageing Research Institute adds her perspective to how faith and different cultural beliefs can impact an older person's quality of life.

IMAGE: ARE WE PREPARING FOR THE GREATER CULTURAL DIVERSITY OF OLDER AUSTRALIANS? (FLICKR/FECHIFAJARDO/)

Monday to Friday 9am, Saturday 3pm

Repeated: Monday to Friday 9pm, Tuesday to Saturday 4am

Presented by Amanda Smith and Michael Mackenzie

IN THIS PROGRAM

Cultural diversity in aged care, Millennials that volunteer and libraries in jails - Monday 10 July 2017

▶ Listen

Download

Ageing in a foreign land: cultural diversity and aged care

9:06 AM

Are millennials as selfish as we think?

9:31 AM

Escaping with a good book: the value of libraries in Australian jails

9:44 AM

Share

Tweet

Print

Email

More

Credits

Producer Cathy Pryor